

The invisible danger

the story of a stranger

It's time for the annual virus meeting. This year the small corona virus is invited to the meeting for the first time. But he is not welcomed as kindly as he had hoped to be. The big and well-known viruses mock the small and unknown Corona virus. They insult him and think he should earn his place at the meeting first.

"I'll show you", the little Corona virus thinks to himself and heads for Earth.

He sets off in search of a large crowd of people. That's the easiest place for him to spread. Because that's exactly what he needs to do to, earn its place at the annual virus meeting.

It is a sunny Friday evening and people are enjoying the start to their weekend. Perfect conditions for the little virus to make it big.

He quickly finds his first host. And that's just the start...

The no longer so small Corona virus spreads quickly. Soon it spread throughout Switzerland and not much later also around the world.

The now crowned and dangerous corona virus returns to the virus meeting.

At the meeting he can now tell the other viruses that the people treat him like a king.

“The people no longer meet in person and they make room for me on the streets.” And just like that, the once tiny Corona virus became king of the world...

I hope you all stay healthy during this special time under the reign of the Corona-Virus!
