We were given the task to create a comic about how we experienced the current Corona situation.

It's difficult to decide what to make this comic about with so much going on

I could write about my pets..

They got much more affectionate since we now spend all day
at home.

I wonder if they know what's going on?

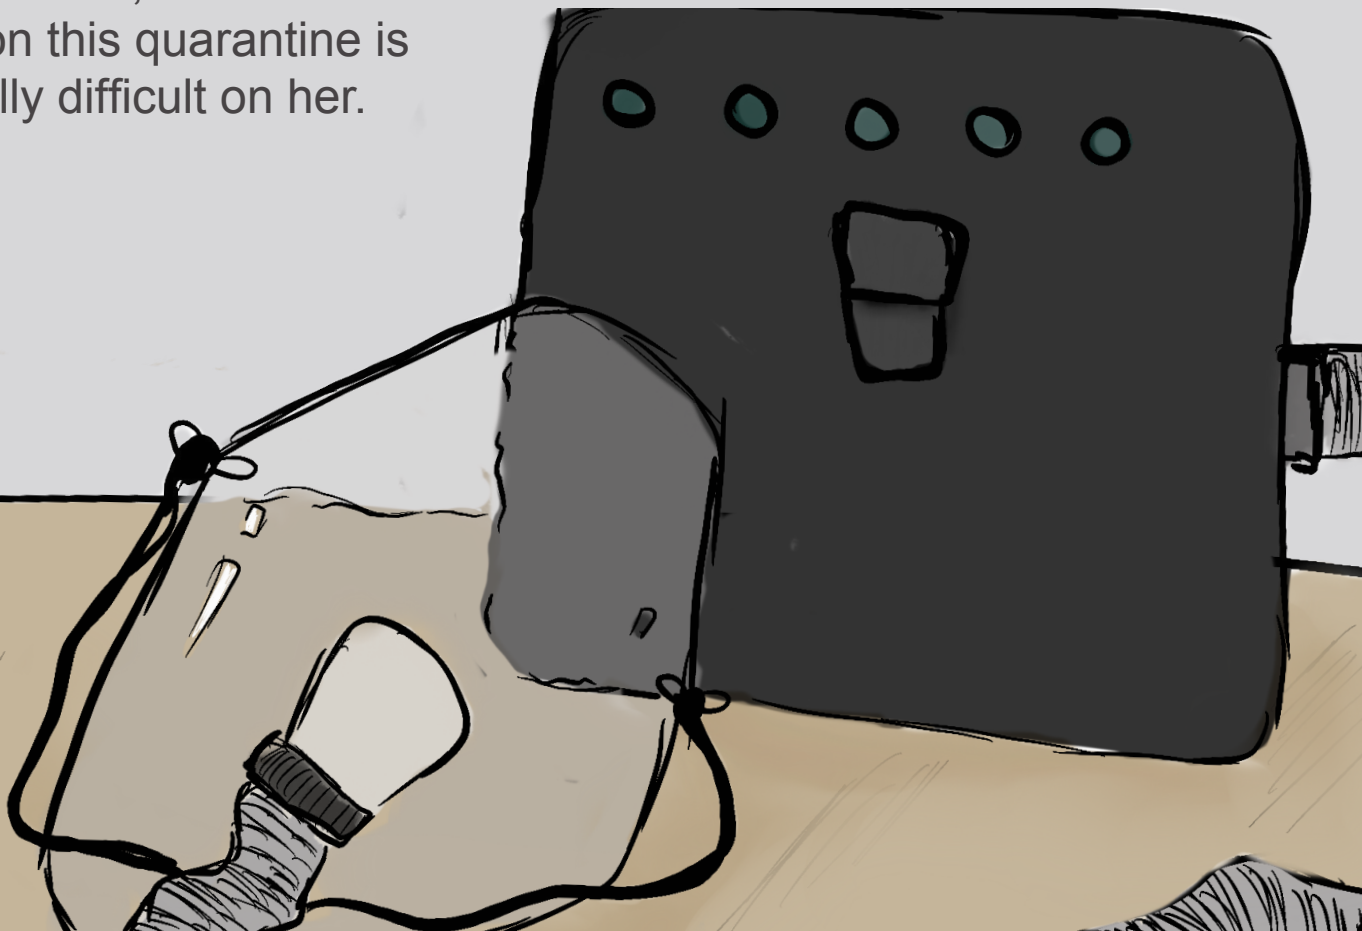

Or maybe create a comic that tells the side from the senior citizens?

After all, I can't see my grandmother anymore, her lung disease and her age put her in the highest risk group.

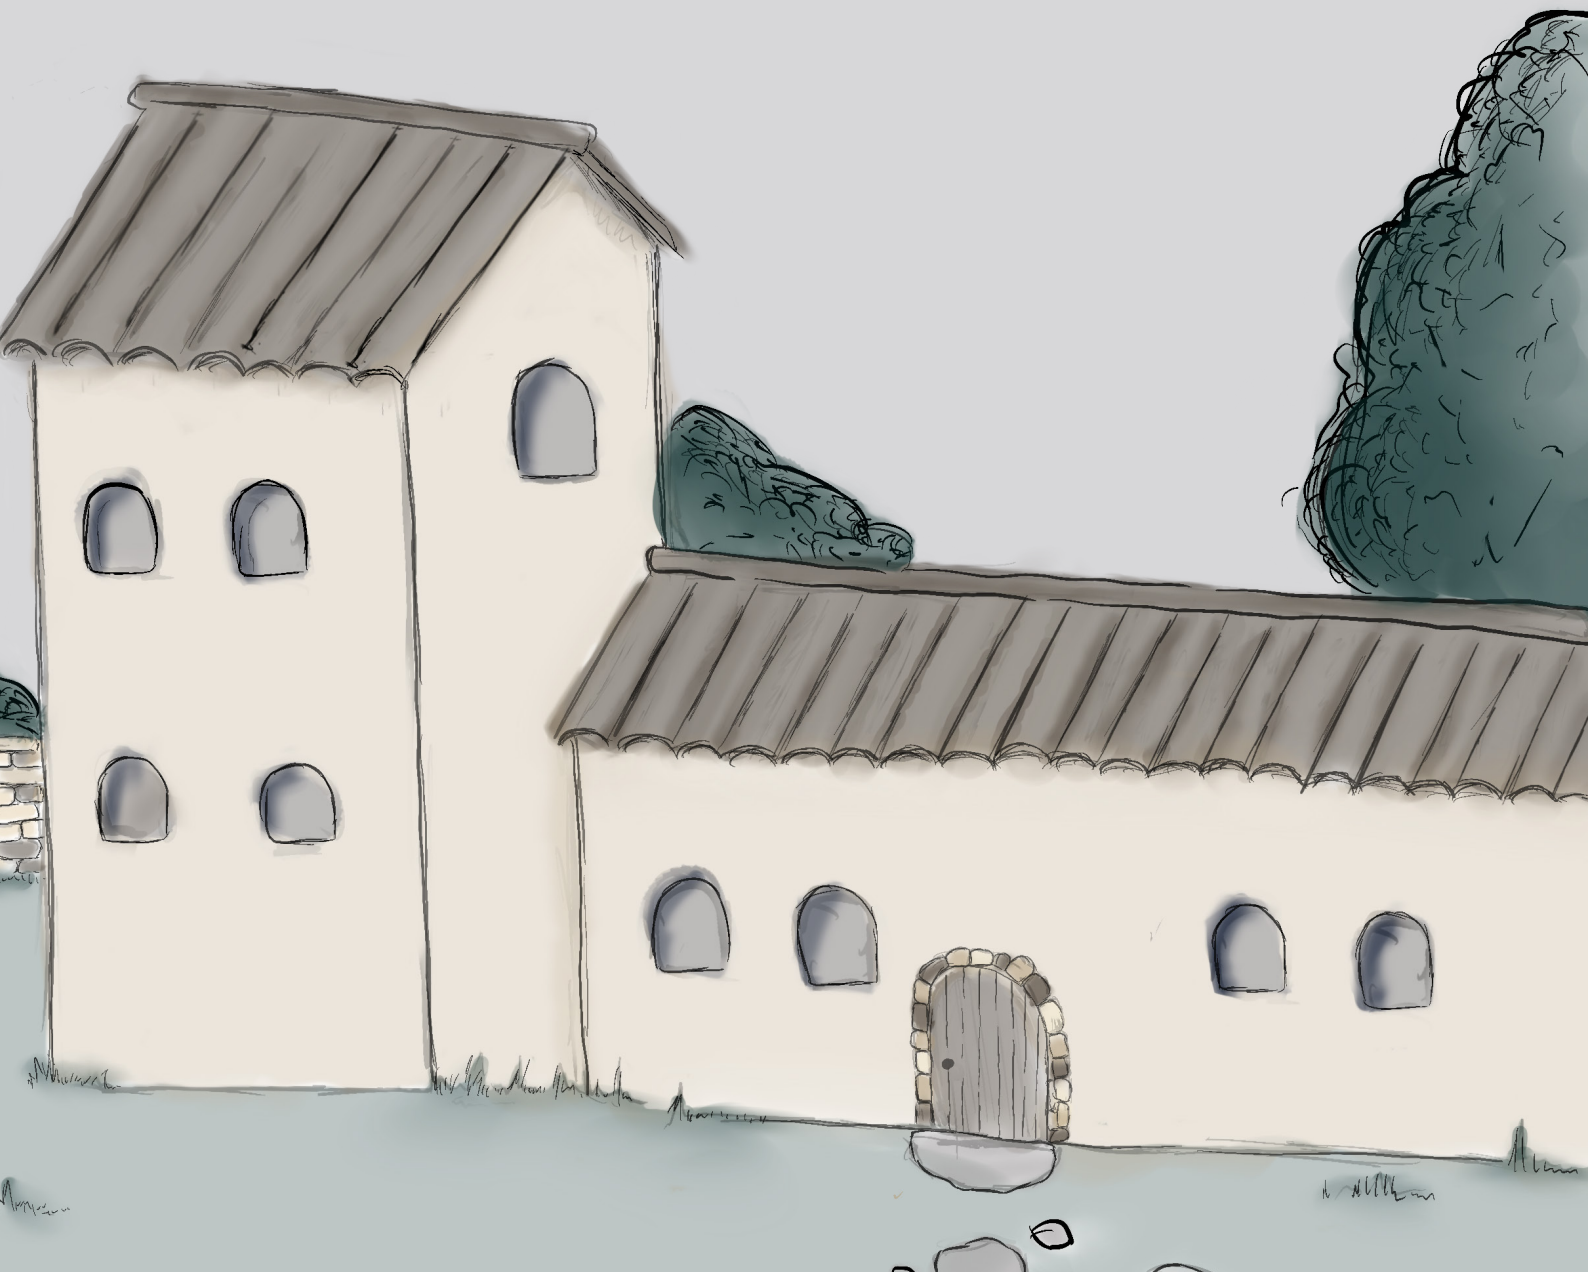

As a social, extroverted person this quarantine is really difficult on her.

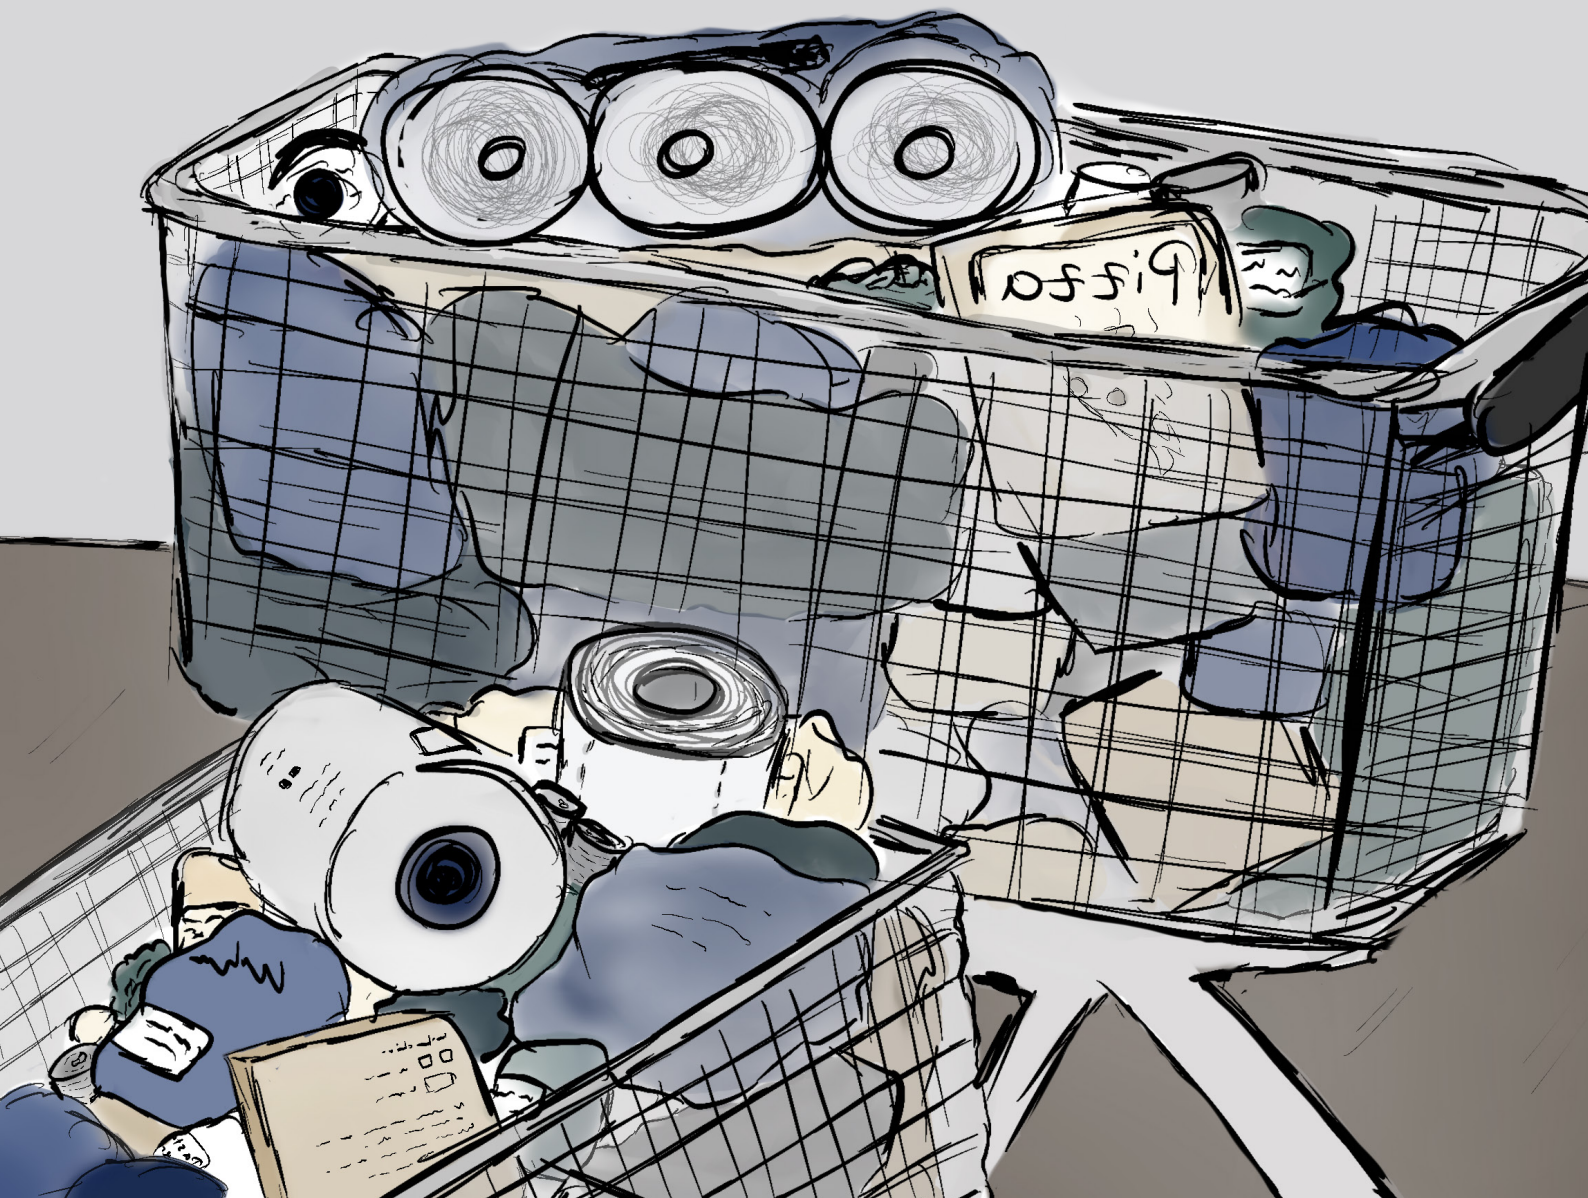

On top of that, she is worried about the family, which is scattered all over the world. Especially her little sister in Italy.

Our Family in Italy hast to put a note in front of their house, in order to be supplied with food. The Food will be delivered to them at some point.

During this time, there is often a shortage of food, even in Switzerland the shelves were empty for weeks.

People worldwide were blinded by selfishness

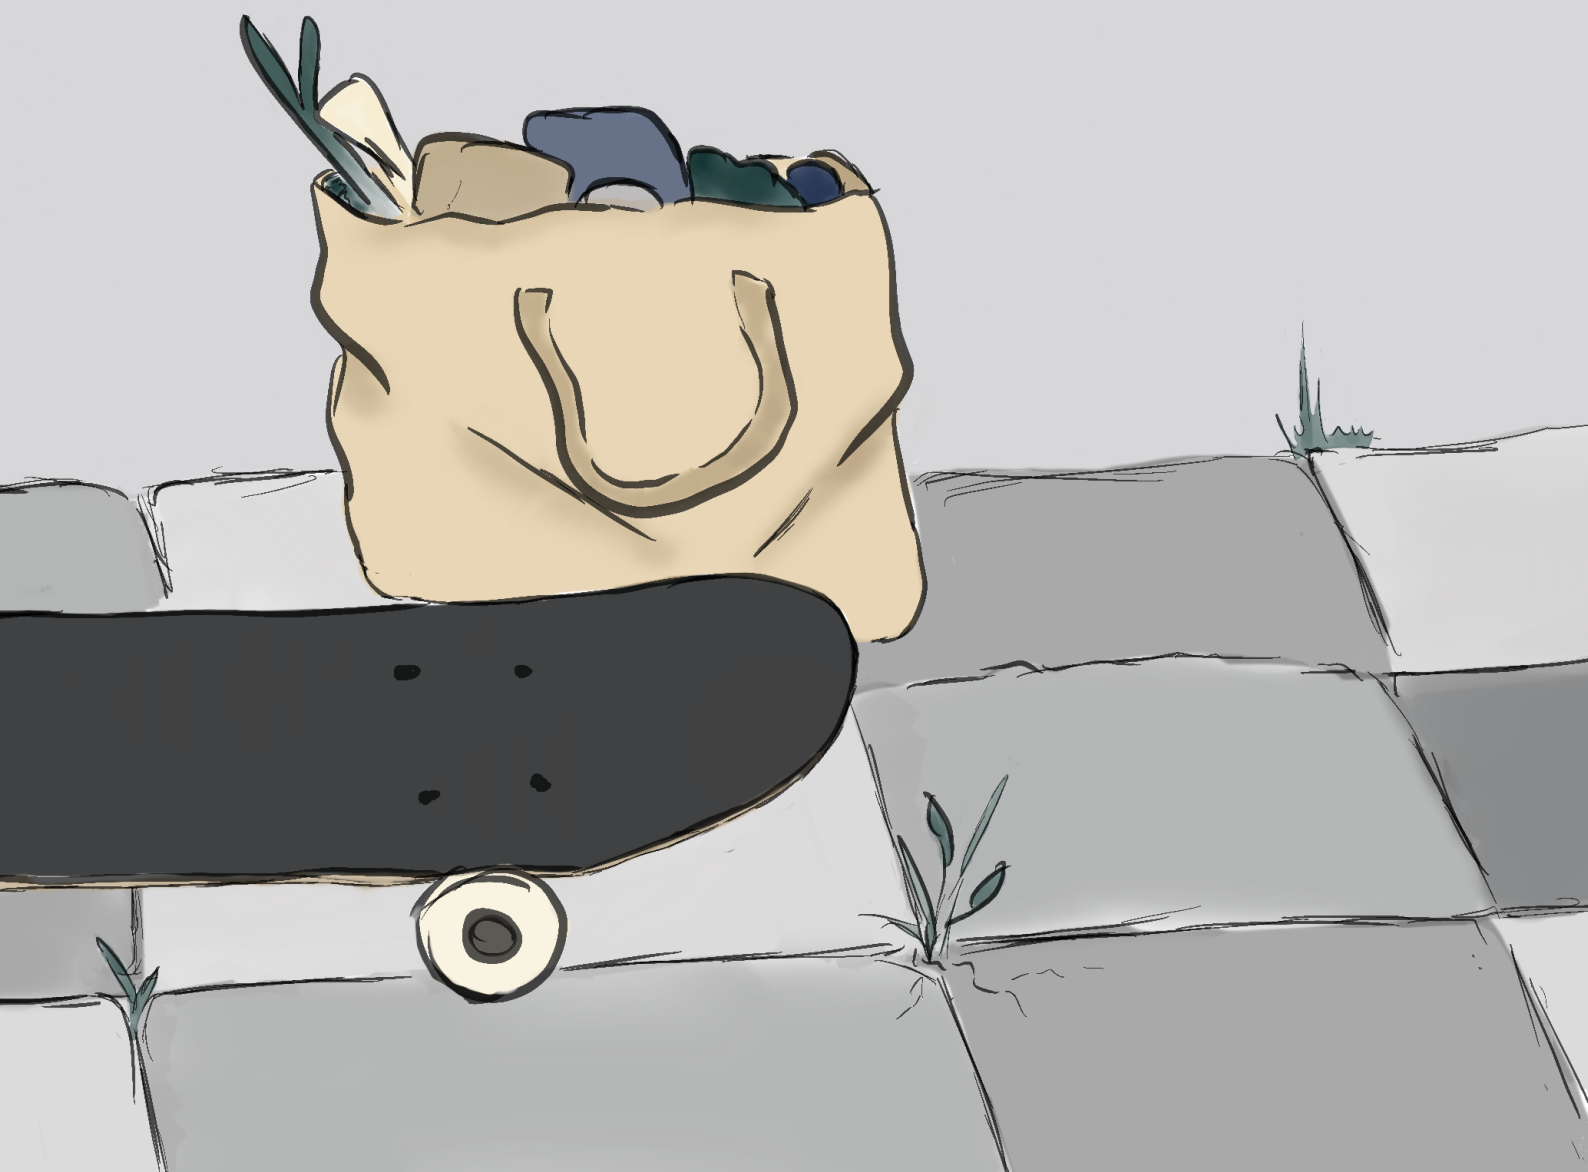

Maybe the story about my broken elbow would be interesting too. After all it happened during the quarantine..

This has made it more difficult for me to manage my projects and duties. After all School and Deadlines continued for me . I was also not allowed to neglect doctor's visits, because I was afraid that my elbow would not heal correctly.

With all these thoughts in my head..

How could I choose a single topic?
